Mark Parrish

"Watch out!
There's gravity over there!"
~Mr. Parrish

■ "He makes a lot of funny jokes related to and completely unrelated to physics. He also has fun daily questions that are about everything.."

■ ■ "Mr. Parrish allows us to explore the course material as we deem fit, provided that we are progressing toward the overarching goal of mastery. He is open to our own ideas at learning the topics and encourages making mistakes and asking questions."

■ ■ ■ "Mr. Parrish not only encourages me to enjoy learning, but shares his passion with the class. I never knew I could love physics so deeply. The endless dad jokes that somehow relate to physics make my day much brighter."

■ ■ ■ ■ You can tell that Mr. Parrish not only enjoys teaching but also makes the effort to connect with each student. He always makes jokes that are both entertaining and helpful to increasing our knowledge in the subject area. Coming into physics, I was worried it would be extremely difficult and uninteresting, but Mr. Parrish has completely reversed this idea, and it's now one of my favorite classes.

Retiring Teachers

Ms. Goodloe

Sheryl Goodloe is retiring this June after serving as Westwood's METCO Director for 26 years. During her time in Westwood, Sheryl worked to strengthen and expand programming for our Boston resident students. When she first arrived on the scene, Westwood only enrolled Boston students at the high school. Thanks to her advocacy and support, the district added transportation services and staff needed to support the enrollment of Boston resident students in the middle school.

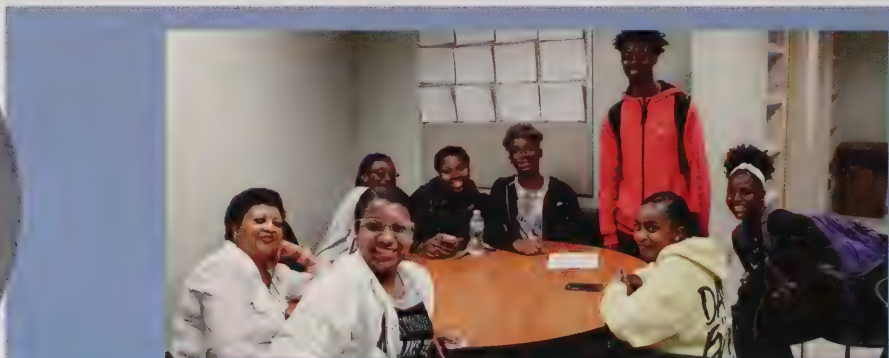

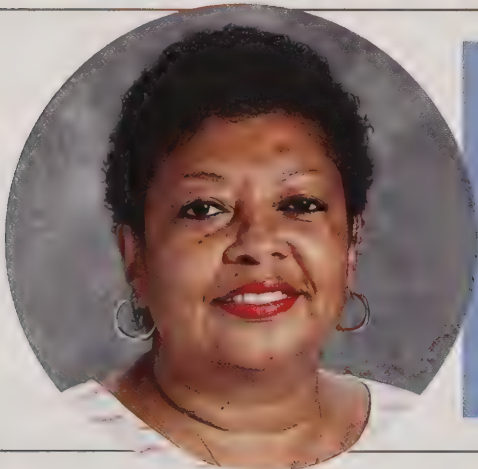

Throughout her time as director, one key focus for Sheryl was on providing meaningful professional development for her colleagues in Westwood and beyond. In the district she has organized guest speaker events, student panels, and even an opportunity for faculty to ride the same bus route as their Boston students. This past November, she collaborated with David Johns, Executive Director of the Black Justice Coalition, to create a day of professional learning with students at the center. As a veteran member of the METCO Directors Association, Sheryl has been a key player in organizing the annual MDA conference.

Sheryl has also partnered with colleagues as well as the wider community to support and celebrate students' academic, social, co-curricular, and athletic growth. She established Westwood's host family network, helped get the Running Start induction program off the ground, and presided over the annual METCO dinner in honor of our graduating seniors. Sheryl also worked on the Let's Talk About Race initiative, secured grant funding to support students joining The Calculus Project, and championed the Tenacity Challenge.

Ms. Goodloe has touched the lives of thousands of kids and families during her time as director. Her fierce advocacy and careful stewardship has created a strong program in Westwood—a program that is treasured by our students, staff and families. We will miss her humor, her straight talk and her big heart, and we all wish her much happiness, good health and perhaps even some well-deserved peace and quiet during her retirement.

26 Years in Westwood!

Mark Parrish says

"She was a champion for inquiry-based learning in the science department, and her positive influence on our curriculum will be felt for years to come. She always set a high bar for students in her classroom, and held them to it. Wish her the very best in retirement."

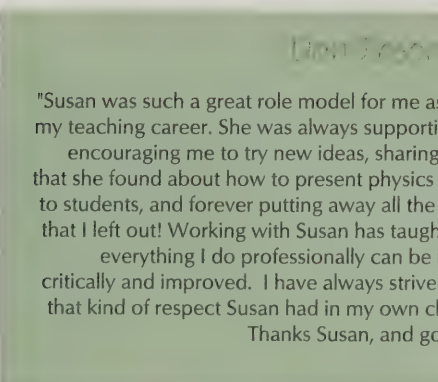

"Even up until her last year of teaching, Susan always tried to improve her practice. She was never complacent with just getting through and challenged the staff on how we can think about our teaching practice in new and creative ways."

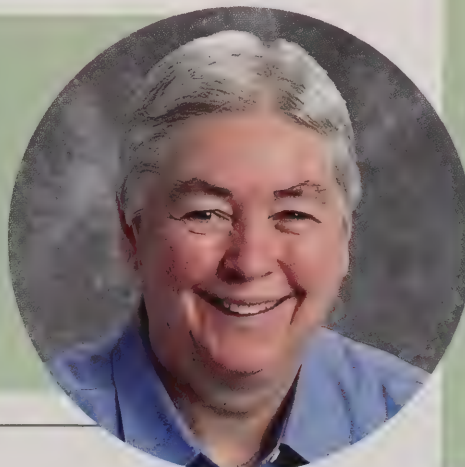

Megan Maresh says:

"Ms. Cable's enthusiasm for teaching physics is infectious and she is such a kind and generous colleague. She cares for her students and is willing to jump in and help where she is needed. I wish her all the best in her retirement!"

"Susan was such a great role model for me as I started my teaching career. She was always supportive of me, encouraging me to try new ideas, sharing research that she found about how to present physics concepts to students, and forever putting away all the materials that I left out! Working with Susan has taught me that everything I do professionally can be looked at critically and improved. I have always strived to have that kind of respect Susan had in my own classroom. Thanks Susan, and good luck!"

Ms. Cable

Just the facts

- ▶ I went to Bridgewater State College (at the time) and received a BS with a double major in Physics and Math. then I went to UNH and received a MS in Physics.
- ▶ I have been teaching Physics full time for 36 years. Twenty four of those were teaching at two-year and four-year colleges and twelve years here at WHS.
- ▶ Dream Job:
I wanted to do anything working with Math. I definitely knew that I did not want to teach even when I graduated from college.
- ▶ I will really miss the projects that the students work on at the end of the year from the AP Physics students building Rube Goldberg machines and Musical Instruments to the freshmen Physical Science students building and testing submarines.
- ▶ Favorite Memories:
One of my favorite memories came during the year the students tied all of the seven Rube Goldberg machines together. Watching it go all the way around the room when it was set off was a blast!
- ▶ Advice to Students:
"You really can do anything that you set your mind to but the real key to happiness in life is balance!"

The house lights go down and the audience is transported to a dark and ominous 1984. In an alternate post-1984 future, a group of confused readers discover the diary of Winston Smith. Winston, who lives the repetitive life in the canteen, having the same conversations, deleting history at work, hates the party and is determined to destroy it. As she explores her relationship with Julia and seeks the help of O'Brien and the brotherhood, she comes closer and closer to confronting Big Brother itself. However, in 1984, nothing is as it seems. Big Brother is always one step ahead. In a dismal second act, O'Brien reinforces to Winston that the party is always right, that she will never win. Tortured with mind tricks, electricutions, rats, Winston indeed does not win, "ratting" out Julia and proving that the party will prevail. In its chilling conclusion, 1984 leaves the audience feeling watched and unsettled.

Hard Work Pays Off

This year we won 8 games which was a big improvement for us. We had multiple close games in which we fought our hardest and our team chemistry was a lot stronger. We came back this year with a goal in winning and in our minds and we did just that.

Class of 2019 Will

I, Lucia Vaccaro, leave my senioritis to the class of 2020. Good luck. * I, Nicky Qin, leave behind the practice rooms which brought so much comfort. * I, Megan Lam, leave the band room to Sam Cashook, Josh Minsky, Sean Lendrum, and co. so they can have a home all to themselves for the rest of their high school years. * I, Claire Anderson leave to the student body the responsibility of taking care of my prized pupil, Will Vaccaro. He will run the world some day and you all need to make sure of that. * I, Justin O'Dwyer, leave the WHS chess team to Gus Dudley. * I, Kiera Fikani, leave my coffee mug to my brother so he will have the courage to make through his last high school year. * I Noah Heespelink leave my ideas. * I Nora Lally, as the sixth and final Lally, leave the legacy of the Lally girls behind. * I, Andrew Deery, leave my apple music playlist for the grades to come. * I, Anneli Ramolins, leave all of my econ notes and Champion hoodies to Kelly Driscoll, so that she can survive senior year. * I, Colleen Dalton, leave my intelligence to Celia Mastromattei. * I, Grace Perrone, leave the art studio to Hayley Morrison. * I, Jane Krumsiek, leave my track spikes to Alexis June David and Olivia Holbrook. * I, Kayla Dolley leave to all students of WHS to not get caught up on the little things in life because they won't mean anything later on. * I, Lauren Casey, leave my parking spot to Ashley Kutzer my parking spot now you can be on time to school ! * I, Liam Rooney, leave the ski team coat bag and walking talkie to Elizabeth Watson, Ashley Kutzer, and Joe Glynn. * I, Mia Sullivan, leave my 2004 Toyota Corolla to Holly Sullivan so it can break down in her hands and not mine. * I, Victoria Rands, leave my hope to the future generations of Westwood High School to enjoy and cherish their last four years here. * I, Zarek Miskovsky, leave my might and GPA to the class of 2020. May the force be with you. * I, Taylor Lee, leave my knowledge that there's no limit on dismissals. * I, Kat Keith, leave the "1, 2, 3" chant to Hannah Blomquist so she can lead the hockey team loud and proud. * I, Hannah Murphy, leave my place in the musical to Maeve Patton. * I, Ellen McGough, leave my mom's email password to my younger brother Kevin, so that he too may have unlimited access to tardy notes. * I, Meghan Swindon, leave the softball team to Maggie Fahey. * I, Caroline McDonough, leave the advice to NOT play Senior Assassin. * I, Celia Piemontese, am telling all under class-men, stay in your lane and do not challenge a senior. * I, Cristina Cedrone, leave my confidence to the future generations that come through Westwood High School so they will have the strength to succeed throughout their life. * I, Kiersten Khoury, leave the Future WHS seniors these words of advice... leave your house 10 minutes early to get Dunkin', you'll need it! * I, Mandy Hanna leave the Islington side of town to students who live there, in hopes people will be more willing to drive you home than they were for me. * I, Melanie Homsy, leave my outgoing, loud voice so everyone can be heard from down the hall. * I, Caitlin Curtin, leave Caitlin Fleming and Hattie Noble the taki taki carpool. * I, Olivia Jordan, leave my red cards to Maddie and Katherine in hope they carry on the tradition. * I, Chloe Goodman, leave because...I just wanna leave...my head hurts man. * I, Stephanie Moran, leave the power of "go" to the next head stage manager. * I, Shane Cronin, leave my baseball Jersey to Kevin McDonald. * I, Tiffany Law, leave my chromebook so that someone can use it as a loaner. * I, Michael Lo, leave the underclassmen with perseverance. I leave it to all of the young students who struggle to turn in their work for the fear of being wrong is too great a burden to bear. I leave it to the students who take sick days because they have three tests in a row to take and an essay due at ten o'clock. I leave it to the students who are afraid to take challenging classes because succeeding in them means being held to higher standards. And I leave my perseverance to the children who remain quiet around their peers because they do not take as advanced classes as them, and fear being judged as inferior or even just below average. I leave it with these students because I know how it feels to be one of them: to be scared of your teacher harshly criticizing you; to be scared of having three tests in a row because the schedule is unfair; to have a sick feeling when thinking about taking a class that might be too hard, because it hurts to find out you're not as smart as you thought you were; and to feel that the people around you were so intelligent that your own input would only sound foolish. But one day, you'll break through all of it. You'll understand how the school works, how hard certain classes are, what the teachers look for and what they want to help you with, and you'll understand that other people's opinions are minuscule compared to the opinion you have of yourself. With the perseverance I leave with all of the underclassmen, I hope that they find the courage to challenge themselves, to prove haters wrong, and most importantly, to be the person you'd like to be, not the person everyone else seems to be. I pass on this perseverance I was given early on in high school so you may pass it on to other underclassmen when you stand in my shoes. Only when you stand a few weeks, days, minutes, away from graduation will you realize that your perseverance is what got you to graduation, and that you no longer need it because you have learned to persevere for yourself. * I, Maeve Garrity, leave to the incoming freshmen the advice that the middle sink in the bathroom near the cafeteria sprays, so watch out. * I, Noah Stone, leave to the juniors of BC Calculus the strength to stand up to the seniors and not bring in cake for them. * I, Leah Becker, leave all my happiness in freshman year, I had no idea what was coming... * I, Mark Lane, leave WHS for other students to have similar educational opportunities that I have had. * I, Brian Fallon, leave my class will to anyone who wants to write one for me. * I, Bryce Parazin, leave the robotics website to the next person roped into doing it. * I, Bella Messina, leave my senioritis to the next class of seniors. * I, Marissa Montalto, leave the cheer team to Lily Bruno and Berwin Lan to make it as great as it should be. * I, Emily Foscaldo, leave the responsibilities of taking care of the theater underclassman to Daniel Xu. * I, Brian Blomquist, leave my drive to work hard to the class of '20 so they can have a great senior year! * I, Jack Deehan, leave WHS students my confidence so they can take classes that interest them. * I, John Delfeld, leave the advice that studies are counted as real classes and you should show up to them. * I, Alex Mellott, leave my jovial attitude to light up everyone's day a little bit more. * I, Brian Forde leave my childhood behind and prepare for the real world in college. * I, Leah Piscitelli, leave the Hockey team the ability to get to school after morning practice and never be marketed tardy. * I, Michael Jiang, will leave my locker to the next student who will also never use it. * I, Bridget Pickard, leave my pencil so some student will be prepared for class unexpectedly. * I, Alvin Tan, leave my advice to not run senior assassins and be a snake. * I, Sophie Weller, leave the responsibility of keeping Ms. Houston sane during the week of Encounters to Alex Lapin. * I, Emma Barrett, leave my parking spot to Alex Lapin because she's the only reason I got through Physics. * I, Emma Ollerhead, leave my locker to Daniel Xu to store his newly purchased Birkenstocks. * I, Isabella Conary, leave my nap kit in the chorus room for anyone who needs it in free blocks. * I, Jason Moy, leave my parking spot to Daniel Xu so he can finally feel the satisfaction of parking in the lot. * I, Madi Brady, leave my AirPods to the less fortunate to help get through the first few months of senior year. * I, Sami Parazin, leave the theater kids, wonderful shows and amazing tech. * I, Myles Collins, leave my love Marie at the snack line so that she always gets the respect she deserves. * I, Michael Moylan, give this advice: "don't be the one to lose triple lunch" * I, Mike Lacey leave my parking spot to Tommy Stapleton so he will be on time to school. * I, Kevin Zhang, leave my legacy to my two younger brothers, Owen and Evan, in support of them working towards their own sought-out goals, and in hope of them achieving even greater things. * I, Will Stairs, leave my last "LAFUNK" to Sam Cashook so he can remember the fun times with our glorious leader. *

CLASS DAY

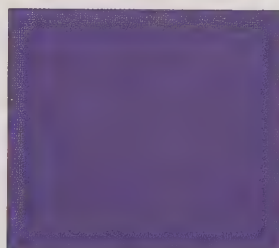

"As a class we have gathered here for one of the last times together. We sit two days from graduation, finally the big fish, and life beyond high school is right in front of us. So, as each of us start the next chapter of our lives, always remember the bonds we created together, and the values which hold those bonds strong. Thank you and once again congratulations to the Class of 2019."

GRADUATION

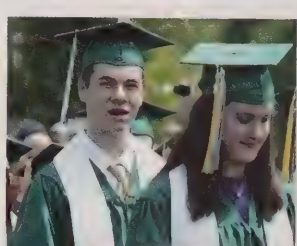

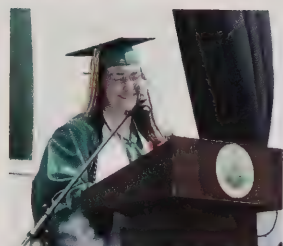

"In the coming years, as we venture beyond the comfortable bubble of Westwood High School, I challenge all of you to harness this individuality. I challenge all of you to question not just what you believe, but why you believe it. To quote Steve Jobs, the man whose creative thought permanently transformed the technology sector, "Your time is limited, so don't waste it living someone else's life. Don't be trapped by dogma - which is living with the results of other people's thinking. Don't let the noise of others' opinions drown out your own inner voice."

- Kira Hobson

Valedictorian of Class of 2019

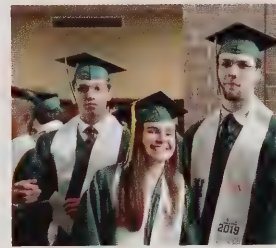

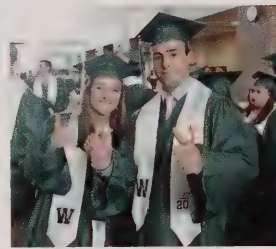

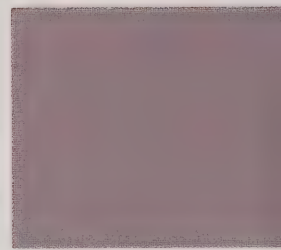

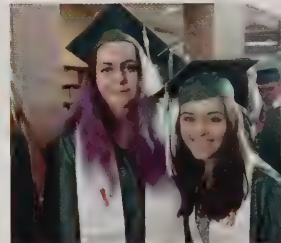

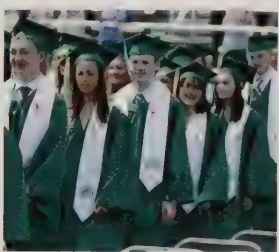

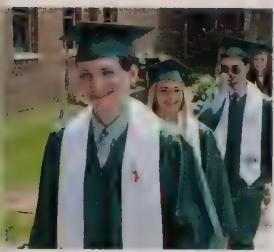

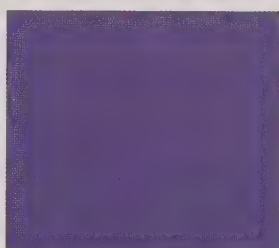

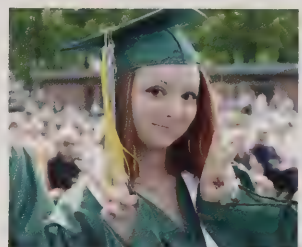

You have all created a community in which a scared and anxious fourteen year old found her way, and her place. That being said, the weight of your everyday actions towards others cannot be doubted. Your actions have the power to impact the real world, transforming it into one we wish to not only live in, but to thrive in. The next steps for us all varies; however, it is with certainty that I can look back at our moments of strength in our shared history and prove the potential within us all. The potential we hold at this moment is comparable to that of Lincoln, of Cady Stanton, of Hamilton, and of all the other greatest influential American history hits. As we have seen both in our textbooks and over our four years at Westwood High, history repeats itself. It's time we make it something worth repeating."
